Angela and Darrel, Tuesday, July 10, 2012

Take that down OR print what I have written.

- There is NOT one true sentence in what you write about me.
- It is ALL lies
- Either take it down tonight or print what I wrote.

I will be contacting one of my Attorney's tomorrow if it is NOT taken down tonight. And I have 3 Attorney's in Three different States. Oregon, Texas and DE.

1. Darrell is not doing Lafayette crud anymore - he has moved onto bigger efforts. So, you can save yourself the keystrokes of including him. I handle our website and the inner workings of it.
2. I printed exactly what you sent me - that you asked me to post. I will forward that message to you, if you are unable to locate in your sent messages. So, contact your attorney. I did not change a single word - cut and pasted it exactly as you wrote it. It is not my place to edit anyone's work. You can have them contact me through the numerous avenues as listed on my website.

3. I did not respond to you this am, as I did not want to be accused of sending you too many emails. But, I do not extract information from emails. I took the email conversations and printed them exactly as they came to me. There is not one thing that has been posted from you that did not come from you.

4. You asked that the text be posted in the Voices section, and I have done that. I am under no obligation - EVER - to have you instruct me how to operate. I chose to post your message, because you asked me to. If you are now having second thoughts, I have no control over that. For me personally, I find it helpful to read over and think about things before I hit the send button.

I can assume we are complete in our conversations. I know that is my take on the situation.

Have a lovely evening.

- I am ALMOST satisfied. I want my rebuttal printed at the TOP (FIRST) and NOT last of or at the bottom of 20 or more pages of white pages and junk.
- I did notice that you DID NOT print most of your emails and the ones you did, you hid the text.

The hidden text is the previous text of the same email. Your message is at top. It seems you have some computer issues that need to be resolved - like page refreshing and cookie clearing. Your message has been posted since Monday at 6:30 pm.

As you have pending litigation against me, it is not appropriate for us to continue any conversation. Please have your lawyer explain that to you. You can hire someone else to help you with your computer issues.

While I appreciate open conversation, I am not a servant at your whim.

Please direct any further conversation through your attorney.
