Local citizens hold rally to protest News Register

October 29, 2010

A group of about a dozen citizens gathered in front of the News Register offices in downtown McMinnville as an organized protest against the local newspaper.

The rally was held on Tuesday, October 26 for approximately two hours.

Protesters involved say they chose to hold a rally against News Register due to their inaccurate and unfair reporting.

One news reporter in particular was being targeted: Hannah Hoffman.

Hoffman had been assigned by the paper to report most, if not all, of Lafayette's city and council information until recently.

Hoffman has done little reporting on the city of Lafayette since a local resident contacted the newspaper editor to complain about her inaccurate or bias reporting of details at council meetings.

Several of the Lafayette election candidates declined interviews with the News Register when it was requested this month. The candidates claim that the News Register inaccurately reports information provided by twisting or omitting facts.
